ABOUT PUNE VIDYARTHI GRIHA (PVG)

Pune Vidyarthi Griha is a well known charitable institution established in 1909, by a group of dedicated visionary educationists such as Kulguru Late V.G.alias Dadasaheb Ketkar, Dr. G. S. alias Annasaheb Kher and Babasaheb Patwardhan. At present, it is one of the few prestigious educational hubs in Maharashtra.

The primary mission of the institute is to provide progressive and value added educational facilities for deserving, poor and needy students of the society, so as to make them competitive at global level. Today the institution has been successful in catering to the educational needs of Pune, Nashik & Mumbai.

The institute provides a wide range of educational programmes from pre primary to Ph.D, encompassing Arts, Commerce, Science, Computer Science, Engineering Education & Management Courses.

Pune Vidyarthi Griha has been the only institute in India which has striven hard to vocationalise education in printing field since 1926 and has led to establish itself as a recognized education & research centre.

PVG has its own modern printing press and publication division, which has published many technical and non - technical books in Marathi and English, which are referred all over India.

PVG's Schools and Colleges located at different places, aim to provide quality education that blends rich Indian Cultural values with modern teaching methods to enhance the personality of students so as to excel in the competitive environment.
